Erin Blalock serves as a Legal Services Manager at FPLG, working to ensure the best possible legal service for the firm's clients. Ms. Blalock's career journey is a testament to her adaptability and passion for helping others. Starting at the YMCA of the Shoals in 2004, she served as the Senior Program Director, driven by the YMCA's core values and a deep desire to make a difference. In 2017, she made a bold transition, deciding to pursue the practice of law at the Birmingham School of Law.

Ms. Blalock's commitment to community service continued unabated during her law practice. She extended her legal aid to the indigent defense cases in Lauderdale County, Rogersville, and Phil Campbell, Alabama. This dedication to justice and her local community was further underscored by her graduation from the University of Alabama with her LL.M. in Taxation in 2023.

Ms. Blalock made the decision to transition her career to work with FPLG, combining her legal and managerial experience in a firm aligned with her core values.

Ms. Blalock's professional life is balanced by her personal interests and family life. She is a proud mother of three, a loving son-in-law, and a doting grandmother. Her family, her Great Dane "Maggie," and early morning runs are her sources of joy and rejuvenation.
